Amendment of section 75 of Act 53 of 1979

26. Section 75 of the principal Act is hereby amended by the addition of the following subsection, the existing provisions becoming subsection (1):

“(2) The provisions of subsection (1) apply with the changes required by the context in respect of any law society, council, member of a council, official or employee of any such law society or any person with whom or which such council has concluded any agreement referred to in section 59(g)(ii) which in terms of any law repealed by section 35 of the Attorneys Amendment Act, 2014.”.

Repeal of section 77 of Act 53 of 1979

27. Section 77 of the principal Act is hereby repealed.

Amendment of section 78 of Act 53 of 1979, as substituted by section 28 of Act 87 of 1989 and amended by section 17 of Act 42 of 2013 and section 1 of Act 14 of 2014

28. Section 78 of the principal Act is hereby amended—

(a) by the substitution for subsection (5) of the following subsection:

“(5) The council of the society [of the province] which has jurisdiction in the area in which a practitioner practises may by itself or through its nominee, and at its own cost, inspect the accounting records of any practitioner in order to satisfy itself that the provisions of subsections (1), (2), (2A), (3) and (4) are being observed, and, if on such inspection it is found that such practitioner has not complied with such provisions, the council may write up the accounting records of such practitioner and recover the costs of the inspection or of such writing up, as the case may be, from that practitioner.”;

(b) by the substitution for subsection (8) of the following subsection:

“(8) The court may on application made by the society [of the province] concerned or by the board of control, in consultation with the society [of the province] concerned, and on good cause shown, prohibit any practitioner from operating in any way on his or her trust account, and may appoint a curator bonis to control and administer such trust account, with such rights, duties and powers in relation thereto as the court may deem fit.”;

(c) by the substitution in subsection (9) for the words following paragraph (a)(vi) of the following words:

“the Master of the [Supreme] High Court may, on application made by the society [of the province] concerned or by any person having an interest in the trust account of that practitioner, appoint a curator bonis to control and administer such account, with such of the prescribed rights, duties and powers as the Master may deem fit.”; and

(d) by the substitution for subsection (13) of the following subsection:

“(13) Any banking institution [or building society] at which a practitioner keeps his or her trust account or any separate account forming part of his or her trust account, shall, if so directed by the council of the society [of the province] having jurisdiction in the area in which such practitioner is practising, furnish the council with a signed certificate which indicates the balance of such account at the date or dates stated by the council.”.

Amendment of section 82 of Act 53 of 1979, as amended by section 13 of Act 104 of 1996

29. Section 82 of the principal Act is hereby amended by the substitution for the words preceding paragraph (a) of the following words:

“The Chief Justice may, after consultation with the judges president of the [several provincial divisions] Divisions of the High Court and with the presidents of the [several] societies make rules of court so as to provide for—”.

Amendment of section 83 of Act 53 of 1979, as amended by section 6 of Act 76 of 1980, section 5 of Act 60 of 1982, section 30 of Act 87 of 1989, section 1 of Act 49 of 1996, section 9 of Act 122 of 1998 and section 17 of Act 42 of 2013

30. Section 83 of the principal Act is hereby amended by the substitution in subsection (11) for paragraph (e) of the following paragraph:

“(e) to any practitioner who makes known in such manner as may be approved by the society [of the province] having jurisdiction in the area in which he or she practises, that he or she does such work;”.

Repeal of section 84 of Act 53 of 1979

31. Section 84 of the principal Act is hereby repealed.

Repeal of section 84A of Act 53 of 1979

32. Section 84A of the principal Act is hereby repealed.

Amendment of section 86 of Act 53 of 1979, as amended by section 31 of Act 87 of 1989 and section 17 of Act 42 of 2013

33. Section 86 of the principal Act is hereby amended— 5

(a) by the substitution for subsection (1) of the following subsection:

“(1) Subject to the provisions of subsections (2) [and], (3) and (4), the laws set out in the Schedule are hereby repealed to the extent set out in the third column thereof.”; and

(b) by the addition of the following subsections: 10

“(4) Any person who, immediately before the commencement of section 33(b) of the Attorneys Amendment Act, 2014, was admitted and entitled to practise as a practitioner in terms of any of the laws repealed by section 35 of that Act continues to be so entitled under this Act, provided that the person complies with all the other requirements of this Act. 15

(5) A degree at any university in the former Republics of Transkei, Bophuthatswana, Venda and Ciskei, which has been designated in terms of section 2(1)(aB), will be acknowledged for purposes of articles of clerkship referred to in section 4A(b)(ii) and admission as attorney referred to in 15(1)(b)(iii): Provided that all requirements for such degree must be completed within five years after the date of coming into operation of section 33(b) of the Attorneys Amendment Act, 2014, or within such period as an Act of Parliament which in future rationalises the legal profession, may determine: Provided further that all other requirements of this Act for entering into articles of clerkship or admission as an attorney have been met. 20 25

(6) A person who, on the date of coming into operation of section 33(b) of the Attorneys Amendment Act, 2014, has obtained a degree referred to in subsection (5), must enter into articles of clerkship within three years after the date of coming into operation of the said section 33(b) or within such period as an Act of Parliament which in future rationalises the legal profession, may determine.”. 30

Insertion of section 86A in Act 53 of 1979

34. The following section is hereby inserted in the principal Act after section 86: 35

“Application of Act

86A. This Act applies throughout the Republic.”.

Repeal or amendment of laws

35. The Acts specified in the Schedule are hereby amended or repealed to the extent set out in the third column of that Schedule. 40

Short title and commencement

MEMORANDUM ON OBJECTS OF THE ATTORNEYS AMENDMENT BILL, 2014

1. INTRODUCTION

- 1.1 The aim of the Attorneys Amendment Bill, 2014 (“the Bill”), is to amend the Attorneys Act, 1979 (Act No. 53 of 1979) (“the Act”), as an interim measure, in order to rationalise the legal profession, pending the enactment and implementation of the Legal Practice legislation.
- 1.2 In that regard, the Bill seeks to—
- (a) amend or delete certain obsolete expressions and provisions;
 - (b) further regulate the engagement of candidate attorneys and their right of appearance in courts;
 - (c) give effect to a Constitutional Court judgment;
 - (d) further regulate juristic persons conducting legal practice;
 - (e) allow actions against the Attorneys Fidelity Fund (“the Fund”) to be instituted in other courts than the High Court, where applicable;
 - (f) restructure and rationalise the areas of jurisdiction of law societies;
 - (g) address disparities in relation to attorneys and candidate attorneys in the territories comprising the former Republics of Transkei, Bophuthatswana, Venda and Ciskei (“the former TBVC states”);
 - (h) provide for transitional arrangements;
 - (i) provide for the repeal and amendment of applicable legislation; and
 - (j) provide for matters connected therewith.

2. BACKGROUND

- 2.1 On independence, the former TBVC states enacted their own laws regulating the attorneys’ profession in certain instances. The former Republics of Bophuthatswana and Venda enacted their own laws regulating attorneys and these laws are still in existence. In 1998, the Act was amended in order to extend insurance cover under the Fund to the areas of the former Republics of Bophuthatswana and Venda, in an effort to protect public interest in relation to trust funds and as an interim measure, pending the rationalisation of the legal profession by means of the Legal Practice legislation. The Law Society of the Northern Provinces (“the LSNP”) was given concurrent disciplinary jurisdiction over attorneys practising in the two areas because the issuing of the Fund certificates and the control over trust funds by way of audits had to be attended to by the LSNP.
- 2.2 The LSNP experiences challenges on a regular basis as a result of the continued existence of separate homeland legislation. Particularly, the Bophuthatswana Attorneys, Notaries and Conveyancers Act, 1984 (Act No. 29 of 1984), still regulates attorneys in the area of the former Republic of Bophuthatswana. Challenges in respect of the area of the former Republic of Bophuthatswana mainly relate to—
- (a) the lack of proper disciplinary and regulatory control being exercised by the Law Society of Bophuthatswana; and
 - (b) candidate attorneys in the area of the former Republic of Bophuthatswana are not required to attend an approved practical legal training course which is considered as essential under the Act, thus resulting in the service by candidate attorneys in this area under articles of clerkship not being recognised as proper service for purposes of the Act.
- 2.3 Problems relating to the Law Society of Bophuthatswana were also highlighted by Judge Harms, the then Deputy President of the Supreme Court of Appeal, in the case of *Law Society of the Northern Provinces v Mogami and Others*¹, giving an indication of the escalation of the problem. The courts, and in particular the Supreme Court of Appeal, recently raised the question whether the time has not come “for a plea to the Minister of Justice and Constitutional Development to consider whether it (the Law Society of Bophuthatswana) serves a useful purpose”.

1. 2010 (1) SA 186 (SCA)

- 2.4 Furthermore, in terms of the Act, candidate attorneys who serve articles of clerkship and who attend the six months’ practical legal training course under the auspices of the Law Society of South Africa (“the LSSA”) are eligible to claim a reduction of the six months from their two years of articles of clerkship. The same benefit is not available to candidate attorneys in the area of the former Republic of Transkei where the Attorneys, Notaries and Conveyancers Admission Act, 1934 (Act No. 23 of 1934), still applies.
- 2.5 While the Department has been reluctant to promote amendments to the Act on an ad hoc basis, pending the enactment of the Legal Practice legislation, which will address the rationalisation of the legal profession comprehensively, including the above-mentioned challenges, it is becoming increasingly urgent to promote the amendments contained in the Bill in the interest of the public and of the legal profession, especially since the enactment and final implementation of the Legal Practice legislation, which adopts an incremental approach, might still take some time.

3. DISCUSSION

- 3.1 Most of the clauses of the Bill are similar in purport and have the same objective in mind, namely to terminate the continued existence of any law society which still operates in some of the former TBVC states and to incorporate them into the mainstream law societies. The amendments that are substantive in nature are discussed below.
- 3.2 Clause 3 of the Bill seeks to amend section 3 of the Act. Section 3 of the Act sets out categories of attorneys who may engage or retain candidate attorneys for the purposes of undergoing articles of clerkship. Professional Assistants are attorneys admitted to practise the profession of attorney in a private law firm. Currently, this section does not include professional assistants in the categories of attorneys who may engage candidate attorneys. Attorneys of similar status in the State Attorney’s Office, Legal Aid South Africa and Law Clinics are entitled to engage candidate attorneys. The proposed amendment in clause 3 is intended to ensure that, similar to their counterparts in the State Attorney’s Office, Legal Aid South Africa and Law Clinics, professional assistants are entitled to engage candidate attorneys. This will broaden the basis of persons who can take articulated clerks, contributing to more persons being able to gain access to the legal profession.
- 3.3 Clause 14 of the Bill seeks to amend section 19 of the Act to increase the notice period in respect of applications for readmission to three months. A person who intends to apply to the High Court for admission as an attorney must give the secretary of the relevant law society notice of such intended application. Currently, the Act does not make any distinction in notice periods between new applications and applications for readmission to legal practice. There may be issues that the law society may need to investigate before it can support and process an application for readmission and one month’s notice is regarded to be insufficient to finalise such investigation. The proposed amendment in clause 14 will afford the law society sufficient time to process the application for readmission.
- 3.4 Clause 15(a) of the Bill seeks to give effect to the Constitutional Court judgment in the case of *Mabaso v the Law Society of the Northern Provinces and the Minister of Justice and Constitutional Development*². The clause seeks to amend section 20 of the Act which provides that a person who was admitted and enrolled as an attorney, notary or conveyancer under this Act may apply to the registrar of any court other than where he or she was so admitted, to have his or her name placed on the roll of that court for purposes of appearing there as well. The underlined words “under this Act” have the effect that attorneys admitted under homeland legislation could not appear in courts other than where they had been admitted. The Constitutional Court found that this wording discriminated unfairly against attorneys admitted in the former TBVC states and ordered that the wording suggested in clause 15(a) should be read into section 20 of the Act.

- 3.5 Clause 16 of the Bill seeks to amend section 23 of the Act. Section 23(1)(a) of the Act permits attorneys to practise as incorporated companies. Section 8(3) of the Companies Act, 2008 (Act No. 71 of 2008) (the “Companies Act”), prohibits any association of persons from carrying on any business that has for its objects the acquisition of gain unless it is registered under the Act. Section 8(2) of the Companies Act defines a profit company, amongst others, as a personal liability company if it meets the criteria for a private company and its memorandum of incorporation states that it is a personal liability company. A private company is defined in section 8(2)(b) of the Companies Act as a company that is not state-owned and its memorandum of incorporation prohibits it from offering any of its securities to the public and restricts the transferability of its securities. Therefore, an incorporated company as provided for in the Act is not recognised by the Companies Act. The proposed amendment contained in clause 16 does away with the requirement that the memorandum of incorporation of a practice registered as a company must state that all past and present directors of the company shall be jointly and severally liable for its debts and liabilities and ensures that such a practice is registered as a personal liability company.
- 3.6 Furthermore, section 23(1)(c) of the Act provides that the name of an incorporated firm of attorneys can only consist of the names of former or current directors of that firm. According to the LNSP, some of the largest firms in its jurisdiction have entered into arrangements with overseas firms, in terms of which the name of the foreign firm is used as a trade name. This arrangement is in conflict with the provisions of section 23(1)(c) as the overseas firms do not have past or current directors in the local firm. However, the LSNP (and the profession, nationally) is of the view that use of the name of the foreign firm as a trade name by local firms is justified since it allows their members to gain experience and compete in the global arena. This amendment, also contained in clause 16, will allow the council of a law society to approve the use of any name as a trade name, and could include the name of an overseas law firm.
- 3.7 In terms of the Companies Act, the word “membership” is only used in the context of a not for profit company or close corporation. The Act uses the term “member” instead of a “shareholder”. Subsections (7) and (9) of section 23 of the Act are amended in order to reflect the correct terminology, and subsections (5) and (6) are repealed as a consequential amendments.
- 3.8 Clause 19 of the Bill seeks to amend section 49 of the Act. Section 49 of the Act requires any action against the Fund to be instituted in the High Court. Litigation in the High Court is expensive and if a matter can be brought in a lower court, which is less expensive than in the High Court, the question is raised why litigants should be forced to approach the High Court. Therefore, the proposed amendment in clause 19 will allow actions against the Fund to be brought in any court having jurisdiction and not necessarily in the High Court, as is currently the position.
- 3.9 Clause 21 seeks to amend section 56 of the Act, which deals with the existing four provincial law societies. This clause provides for the continued existence of the four societies under their present names, namely the Law Society of the Cape of Good Hope, the Law Society of the Orange Free State, the Law Society of the Transvaal and the Natal Law Society. Clause 21, however, provides that these societies may, by resolution of their members, change the names of the societies.

- 3.10 Clause 21 also provides unambiguously that these societies have jurisdiction over all attorneys practising in their respective areas of jurisdiction as follows:
- (a) The Law Society of the Cape of Good Hope has jurisdiction over all attorneys practising in the Western Cape, the Eastern Cape (including the areas of the former Republics of the Transkei and Ciskei) and the Northern Cape.
 - (b) The Law Society of the Orange Free State has jurisdiction over all attorneys practising in the Free State.
 - (c) The Law Society of the Transvaal has jurisdiction over all attorneys practising in Gauteng, Mpumalanga, the North West (including the area of the former Republic of Bophuthatswana) and Limpopo (including the area of the former Republic of Venda).
 - (d) The Natal Law Society has jurisdiction over all attorneys practising in KwaZulu-Natal.
- 3.11 Clause 21 goes on to provide that any law society not mentioned above will dissolve in accordance with arrangements to be made by the Minister by notice in the Gazette, after consultation with the Law Society of South Africa, the law society into which the dissolving law society is to be amalgamated and the law society which is to be dissolved. It is understood that the law societies to be dissolved are largely “empty shells” and have no or very little infrastructure or personnel.
- 3.12 Clause 21 also contains further transitional arrangements, for instance, by providing that any rights and obligations of any society which is dissolved will transfer to the Law Society of the Transvaal, in the case of the areas of the former Republic of Bophuthatswana and Venda, and to the Law Society of the Cape of Good Hope, in the case of the areas of the former Republics of Transkei and Ciskei. Similar transitional provisions are suggested in the case of pending actions and disciplinary inquiries.
- 3.13 Linked to what is stated in paragraph 3.12 is clause 35 of the Bill which repeals the homeland legislation in question. Sections 55, 77, 84 and 84A of the Act effectively become obsolete and are consequentially repealed through clauses 20, 27, 31 and 32 of the Bill.
- 3.14 Clause 34 of the Bill then extends the Act to the rest of the entire country. The transitional arrangements contained in clause 7 of the Bill are aimed at protecting the interests of candidate attorneys whose rights of appearance were issued by law societies which will be amalgamated as a result of the Bill. The right of appearance of these candidate attorneys will be valid for five years from the commencement of the Bill or for such period as may be determined in the Legal Practice legislation when it becomes law.
- 3.15 Clause 22 of the Bill seeks to amend section 57 of the Act to make it obligatory for practitioners who become members of a law society for the first time to provide that law society with information as may be required. The amalgamation of the law societies will result in attorneys becoming members of the different law societies to the ones in respect of which they are currently members. This will require the law societies to have proper and updated records of practitioners falling under their jurisdiction.
- 3.16 Clause 24 of the Bill seeks to amend section 71 of the Act to make provision for the councils of all law societies to enquire into any alleged misconduct of an attorney irrespective of where or when the alleged misconduct took place or whether it occurred before or after that attorney became a member of the society or not. Section 71 of the Act deals with the right of the council of a law society to enquire into alleged unprofessional or dishonest or unworthy conduct of attorneys. Section 15(1) of the Act provides for a court to admit or enrol any person as an attorney if, amongst others, that person is fit and proper to be so admitted or enrolled.

- 3.17 Clause 26 of the Bill seeks to amend section 75 of the Act in order to extend the limitation to agreements which were concluded under any law repealed in terms of clause 35. Section 75 of the Act limits the liability of law societies in respect of anything done in good faith under the Act. Section 59 of the Act empowers law societies to conclude an agreement with any person for the performance of any work or to render services.
- 3.18 The remainder of the clauses are consequential in nature. Many of the clauses give effect to the notion that law societies are not necessarily bound to specific provinces. The relevant clauses are 1, 3 to 10, 12 to 18, 22, 23, 24, 25, 28 and 30. Clauses 1, 2, 7, 11, 19, 25, 28 and 29 propose to amend the provisions of the Act which still refer to concepts such as the “Supreme Court”, “provincial division and local division” and the like, in order to bring them in line with current realities.

4. BODIES, DEPARTMENTS AND PARTIES CONSULTED

- 4.1 Some of the amendments were initiated by the legal profession, in particular the LSNP. Therefore, the Bill was prepared in consultation with the LSNP which has given an assurance that the Black Lawyers Association and the National Association of Democratic Lawyers support the amendments contained in the Bill.
- 4.2 The LSSA, which is the umbrella body for and represents the attorneys’ profession nationally, also supports the proposed amendments.
- 4.3 The Law Society of Bophuthatswana is however opposed to the Bill.

5. FINANCIAL IMPLICATIONS

There are no financial implications for the State in the implementation of the Bill.

6. PARLIAMENTARY PROCEDURE

- 6.1 The Bill seeks to amend the Attorneys Act, 1979 (Act No. 53 of 1979) (“the Act”), which Act regulates the practice of the legal profession in the Republic. The Act provides for the admission and practice of attorneys, notaries and conveyancers and the respective role and functions of the Attorneys Fidelity Fund and the law societies. The provisions of the Bill are in line with section 22 of the Constitution of the Republic of South Africa, 1996 (“the Constitution”). On the one hand, section 22 of the Constitution provides that every citizen has the right to choose their trade, occupation or profession freely. On the other hand, section 22 of the Constitution empowers the State to regulate by law the practice of a trade, occupation or profession.
- 6.2 The word “or” in section 22 of the Constitution must be construed disjunctively, which means that “trade”, “occupation” and “professions” do not belong together under the same category as one area of activity or functionality and must not be applied interchangeably.
- 6.3 In that regard, Schedules 4 and 5 of the Constitution which list the functional areas of concurrent national and provincial legislative competence and exclusive provincial legislative competence, respectively, do not contain any item on the profession or practice of a profession, legal profession or practice of a legal profession, regulation by law of a profession, regulation by law of a legal profession or regulation by law of a practice of a legal profession, as envisaged in section 22 of the Constitution, among those that are listed under the said Schedules.

- 6.4 This is in contrast to Schedule 5 of the Constitution which specifically lists the regulation of the veterinary services profession to be a functional area which is excluded from the realm of exclusive provincial legislative competence, notwithstanding veterinary services being listed among the functional areas of exclusive provincial legislative competence. Schedule 4 of the Constitution, on the other hand, refers to “trade”, as opposed to a “profession”.
- 6.5 Furthermore, although the legal profession renders a service to the public, the provisions of the Bill do not fall within the realm of consumer protection as listed in Part A of Schedule 4 to the Constitution. The provisions of the Bill deal with the regulation of the legal profession.
- 6.6 Furthermore, section 171 of the Constitution deals with court procedures and provides that all courts function in terms of national legislation and their rules and procedures must be provided for in terms of national legislation. Legal practitioners, including attorneys, by virtue of their roles as officers of the court, assist the courts in performing their functions in relation to court procedures.
- 6.7 Section 180 of the Constitution, on the other hand, provides that national legislation may provide for any matter concerning the administration of justice that is not dealt with in the Constitution, including, among others, the participation of people other than judicial officers in court decisions. The practice of a legal profession is intertwined with the administration of justice and, therefore, as already pointed out in paragraph 6.6, attorneys participate in court procedures.
- 6.8 Courts and the administration of justice are dealt with under Chapter 8 (sections 165 to 180 inclusive) of the Constitution. Chapter 8 of the Constitution makes reference, in so far as the appointment or removal of judicial officers or acting judges—the attorneys profession being one of the professions from which judicial officers or judges are selected—to the respective powers and responsibilities of the President, the Cabinet minister responsible for the administration of justice, the National Assembly and the Chief Justice. There is no reference to any power or responsibility of provinces under Chapter 8 of the Constitution, except in so far as section 178 which deals with the membership of the Judicial Service Commission is concerned.
- 6.9 Accordingly, the heading of Chapter 8 of the Constitution provides a strong textual indication that the provisions of the Bill, which regulates the practice of the legal profession, falls under the residual exclusive national competence of Parliament and, as such, must be dealt with in accordance with the procedure established by section 75 of the Constitution. The provisions of the Bill do not in anyway, not even in a substantial measure, affect the interest, concerns and capacities of the provinces, which would render it to fall within the ambit of the procedure prescribed under section 76 of the Constitution.
- 6.10 In that regard, the State Law Advisers and the Department of Justice and Constitutional Development are of the opinion that the Bill must be dealt with in accordance with the procedure established by section 75 of the Constitution since it contains no provision to which the procedure set out in section 74 or section 76 of the Constitution apply.
- 6.11 The State Law Advisers are also of the opinion that it is not necessary to refer the Bill to the National House of Traditional Leaders in terms of section 18(1)(a) of the Traditional Leadership and Governance Framework Act, 2003 (Act No. 41 of 2003), since it does not contain provisions pertaining to customary law or custom of traditional communities.
